PATIENTS' RIGHTS

when such participation is contraindicated for medical reasons.

A patient who is blind or deaf shall have alternative communicative assistance available to them, if requested.

A patient has the right to respectful, considerate, private and dignified care given by competent personnel.

A patient has the right to quality care and high professional standards that are continually maintained and reviewed in a safe setting free from all forms of abuse or harassment.

A patient, or patient designee, upon request, shall have access to the information contained in his/her medical records at the ambulatory surgical facility, unless the attending practitioner for medical reasons specifically restricts access.

A patient has a right to exercise his/her rights without being subjected to discrimination or reprisal.

A patient has the right to full information in layman's terms, concerning diagnosis, evaluation, treatment and prognosis, including information about alternative treatments and possible complications. When it is not medically advisable to give the information to the patient, the information shall be given on his behalf to the responsible person.

A patient, if adjudged incompetent under applicable State health and safety laws by a court of proper jurisdiction, the rights of the right are exercised by the person appointed under State law to act of the patient's behalf. If the State court has not adjudged a patient incompetent, any legal representative designated by the patient in accordance with State law may exercise the patient's rights to the extent allowed by State law.

Except for emergencies, the practitioner shall obtain the necessary informed consent prior to the start of a procedure. Informed consent is defined in Section 103 of the Health Care Services Malpractice Act (40 P. S. § 1301.103).

A patient has the right, upon request, to be given the name of his/her attending practitioner, the names of all other practitioners directly participating in his/her care, and the names and functions of other health care persons having direct contact with the patient.

A patient has the right to be transferred to another facility, with notification to the patient's responsible party, when an emergency occurs and requires transfer to a location capable of providing emergency services. (The institution to which the patient is transferred shall be notified prior to the patient's transfer.)

A patient, or, if the patient is unable to give informed consent, a person responsible for the patient, has the right to be advised when a practitioner is considering the patient as a part of a medical care research program or donor program, and the patient, or responsible person, shall give informed consent prior to actual participation in the program. A patient, or responsible person, may refuse to continue in a program to which he or she has previously given informed consent.

A patient has the right to examine and receive a detailed explanation of his/her bill.

A patient has the right to have records pertaining to his/her medical care treated as confidential, except as otherwise provided by law, or third party contractual agreement.

A patient has the right to expect that the ambulatory surgical facility will provide information for continuing health requirements following discharge and the means for meeting them.

A patient has the right to the opportunity to approve or refuse release of his/her medical care records prior to submission to any party, including third parties based on contractual arrangements, except as otherwise provided by law.

A patient has the right to be informed of his/her rights, responsibilities, and expected conduct by the ambulatory surgical facility prior to admission.

A patient has the right to refuse drugs or procedures, to the extent permitted by statute, and a practitioner shall inform the patient of the medical consequences of the patient's refusal of drugs or procedures.

A patient has the right to information covering the services available at the ambulatory surgical facility, the fees related to those services, and the payment policies governing restitution for services rendered.

A patient has the right to expect emergency procedures to be implemented without unnecessary delay.
